

We work to protect the people and institutions you love. Let's explore partnering to build a career of purpose.

As New York Life celebrates 175 years of helping clients like you act on their love, the company is actively looking for entrepreneurial professionals with a desire to help others.

Because New York Life helps clients experience the peace of mind that usually comes with insurance protection and legacy building, those who join our team generally do well.

Are you ready for a career change yourself? If not, do you know someone who is?

I will mentor and work closely with the financial specialists that my management team at New York Life selects, empowering them with the professional knowledge and resources needed to:

- Understand the financial dreams of others.
- Help ensure those dreams are achieved with insurance and financial strategies.
- Impact individuals in their communities for generations to come.
- Chart a career path that meets their goals and lifestyle.

You acted on your love. Help others do the same. Contact me today.
